Stuart Dufour As President Pro-Tem Lauds Predecessor

President Lemos was so much a part of Hartnell College that I know his influence of the past quarter century will be continued throughout the history of the college.

Certainly the faculty members and students who have worked with President Lemos or have been in his classes appreciate how much he was devoted to the college and the education of college youth. All of us who were associated with him are better persons for the association.

Until the Board of Trustees of the Hartnell Junior College District selects a replacement for President Lemos, I have been appointed by Superintendent J. F. Ching as administrator pro-tem.

While it is a pleasure to again be closely associated with the students and faculty, I deeply regret the circumstances that caused the assignment.

Little Theater Casting Jan. 12 For 'Lute Song'

Castings for the play, "Lute Song," will be held by the College Community Players on Wednesday, January 12, at noon and in the evening, according to Mr. Hal Ulrici, drama instructor of Hartnell College.

"Lute Song," an old Chinese musical, was originally presented at the Imperial Court Theater in Peking, China, in 1404. It is a tale

STUDENT UNION CONSTRUCTION

Most of the foundation work on the student union building was completed over the holidays. Framing operations are now under way.

More progress was made during the past three weeks than was expected, according to Jim Sumrall, foreman for Tombleson and Huck, contractors of the $104,783 building. He attributed unusually dry weather to this.

JOHN B. LEMOS, 1906-1954

With the Death of John Lemos, Hartnell Panthers Lose Their Most Faithful Supporter and Booster

By LEN KLEMPNAUER

The sudden passing of John B. Lemos has deprived Hartnell Junior College of one of its most conscientious sports enthusiasts. As his mark will be left on the academic and administrational aspects of our school, so will his interests in the field of athletics long be remembered.

Mr. Lemos was strong in his desire for well-played, hard-fought contests by Hartnell teams. Although football was known to be his favorite sport, he was often among the spectators at basketball and baseball games, tennis matches, and track meets.

He saw the definite need for the participation in sports by the Hartnell students. At a time when the accent was on de-emphasis of college football, he was in full favor of its expansion, knowing only too well that it provided for a strong union of the members of the Hartnell student body society.

As an administrator, he was more than is usually expected of the average sports booster. But Mr. Lemos was more than an average man.

He was not one to take the lime-light in the affairs of the jaysee sports world. However, he was strong in his convictions of the way in which Hartnell should stand on the numerous problems concerned with the proper running of athletic events.

He was not one that just said what should be done but was one of the few who did something about what he thought to be right. He attended all conference meetings, upholding the idea of keen competition among the schools in the league. Mr. Lemos was noted also for his sincere efforts for the continuation of the Junior Rose

Stuart Dufour Pro-Tem As Popular Prexy Dies

Students returning to Hartnell College this new year found that their amiable and sagacious president, Mr. John B. Lemos, had passed away during the holidays. Faculty members joined them in paying tribute to him in memorial services in Men's Gym this morning.

Many heard of his sudden death and helped to swell Sacred Heart Church in Salinas last Friday morning as a solemn requiem high mass was celebrated in his honor. Friends and associates of the deceased joined and over 300 cars traveled to the interment services at the Garden of Memories.

It was made known, too, on Monday that Mr. Stuart Dufour, former Hartnell journalism instructor, and currently an executive aide to Dr. J. Frederic Ching, superintend-

Memorial services were held this morning in tribute to the memory of John B. Lemos and Douglas C. Roberts, Hartnell student killed in a holiday auto accident. This was held in the Men's Gym with full college attendance.

Talks were given by the Student Body President, Jack Jayet, Karl Bengston, Faculty Association President, and Administrator Pro-Tem, Stuart Dufour.

The Hartnell College Orchestra, led by Lorell McCann played the very beautiful selection "In a Monastery Garden" by Ketelby, and a vocal trio consisting of Silvia Lewis Wynn, Jim Tarantina, and Ted Switzer, sang the "Magnificat" from Christmas Oratorio by Mommie Saint Saens.

The opening prayer was given by Reverend Paul G. Logsdon of the First Methodist Church of Salinas. A closing eulogy was given by the Very Reverend Monsignor Thomas J. Early, V.G. of Sacred Heart Church of Salinas.

Mr. Lemos complained of a pain in his chest after returning from his home at 114 Homestead Avenue to the college after lunch on Tuesday, December 28. He walked home, called a doctor and passed away about 2 o'clock.

JOHN B. LEMOS STUDENT UNION?

Student commissioners of Hartnell College moved at Monday's meeting to submit a letter to the board of education requesting that the new student union building be named the John B. Lemos Student Union.

The commissioners also voted $10 to have masses said for the deceased president. In other action it was approved to set aside a certain amount of money at the end of the year to deposit to the J. B. Lemos Loan Fund.

John Lemos Was Ready

Many of us here at Hartnell first came in contact with John B. Lemos early in September of last year. Before that time we had heard much about him, but to us he merely represented the head of an institute of learning and was comparable only to the principals of our primary and secondary schools. That was, indeed, before we came in contact with John B. Lemos.

We found many characteristics in our former president. He proved himself a man of high integrity, vivid durability, and outstanding tolerance. Above all, he proved himself a friend, a leader, a troubleshooter for all of us. He was the top, but no problem of ours was too small for him or beyond his reaches of mastering.

In actuality, this man dedicated his life for our scholastic and social benefit. He chose to work during the holidays that have just ended, and brief minutes before his passing he was laboring in his office to realize new dreams, to make the operation of this school more harmonious, to further the appeal of Hartnell College.

John B. Lemos was much more than a capable administrator and a companion to all Hartnellites. He was a beloved husband and father, a devout churchman, and an inspiration and highly esteemed cog in a far-flung community.

Proof of his popularity sprouted rapidly after his passing. No one that knew him could find fault in John B. Lemos, not even his most intimate associates. The church services last Friday drew hundreds from all over, including part of the Hartnell College choir to join in the rites.

Educators, civic leaders, business men, club associates, all joined in common praise. All referred to him as a courageous thinker and a faithful counselor. The Salinas Californian in a tributary editorial and the student commissioners of Hartnell at Monday's meeting both proposed that the new union be named after him. People from all over the state sent flowers, sympathy cards, praising words, money for heart and loan funds.

We believe, however, that the greatest monument, the greatest symbol of faith, appreciation and sagacity left by John B. Lemos is his sudden dispensability as president of Hartnell College. Only he could disappear from the scene of life, from the chain of operation, from the topmost level of Hartnell and have all things so readied, so complete, so transferable, that the continuity of teaching and learning went uninterrupted.—CLIFFORD PLETSCHET.

A Man Among Men

To the hundreds of solemn faced people who paid their last respects to John B. Lemos, the Hartnell College president looked much the same as they knew him. Neatly dressed, hair lined with silver streaks and the humble look of dignity that commanded immediate respect. But gone was the warm and friendly smile.

His friends saw the personable and kind man whom they knew and loved. A man's man, yet never charging in the lead, content to play an unassuming but important role somewhere in the near background.

To the students who attended his school he was the man always working to further and better their education. A man never too busy to try and help, and the man who started the only small loan fund in the school. And better yet, they saw a man.

The casual acquaintances saw the man who commanded so much respect with a smile and soft voice and remembered how much they liked him at the first meeting.

Hartnell College mourns the death of John B. Lemos but will cherish and stand proud in his memory. God bless him, and wherever his students go, John Lemos isn't far behind.—KEN DAUGHERTY one-room school at Moss Landing, later moving to Manteca where he was graduated from Manteca high school in 1924.

He received an associate in arts degree from Modesto Junior College and also attended the University of California at Berkeley, from which institution he received his bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees.

Mr. Lemos came to Salinas in 1930 from Ventura Junior College where he had been a science teacher. He was an instructor at Salinas Junior College (now Hartnell) until 1935 when he was appointed president. In 1937, he relinquished the presidency for classroom teaching, serving as an instructor in physics, mathematics, geology, astronomy, and navigation. He was president of the Northern California Junior Colleges Association in 1938-39.

On August 6, 1943, he was named president of Hartnell College succeeding Richard J. Werner, and held the position until his death.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio M. Lemos of Salinas; his widow, Lorene; and four children, Ardienne, 17; Antonia, 12; John Anthony, 9; and Thomas Francis, 6.

Many of his associates voiced praise of John B. Lemos this week.

Dr. Ching: ". . . His loss as educator will be great. He was at heart a teacher in the finest sense. His loss to the community will be deeply felt for he contributed generously of his time and effort toward worthwhile community enterprises . . ."

Mr. Karl Bengston, president of the faculty association, Hartnell Junior College district: "Faculty members of Hartnell College will miss John B. Lemos terribly. We felt that he had an unusual understanding of our problems and we thought of him as our friend. As a result he had our unqualified respect and affection."

Mr. Clifford Swanson, Dean of Men, Hartnell College: "Ordinarily we would be glad to have Mr. DuFour back with us, but not under these circumstances. We have indeed suffered a great loss."

Salinas Californian: ". . . Truly John B. Lemos left his mark on the Salinas Valley and Monterey Bay Area through the thousands of students he served as teacher, counselor and administrator. He taught and lived the well-rounded life, firm in his conviction of divine guidance . . ."

Jack Jayet, President of Associated Students of Hartnell College: "With the passing of John B. Lemos, 810 junior college students, thousands of alumni, hundreds of educators all over the nation, and many, many, business and club associates have lost a true friend, a brilliant scholar and a conscientious administrator."

team this season, and we had a good one last year. Football success will probably depart us next year."

Mr. Lemos was in every sense of the word a true sportsman. Hartnell has lost a great man who realized the potential and necessity of clean, well supervised athletic events on the jaysee level.

Panther's Claw

By C. P.

We turn this week from the fun and frolic and pass on a series of verbal monuments to Mr. John B. Lemos from students of Hartnell College.

Ken Daugherty: "I have lost a dear and personal friend with the passing of Mr. Lemos."

Vern Slinker: "The loss of a man like John B. Lemos can only be described as a shock."

Carole Stenger: "Mr. Lemos will be missed as unique counselor to all Hartnell students."

Robert Endersby: "The topmost member of northern California educational and administrative circles has taken a permanent leave of absence."

Max Anderson: "Mr. Lemos was an outstanding friend of all Hartnell athletes. His contribution to college sports stands as a monument to his memory."

Norma Branson: "On two or three occasions Mr. Lemos gave his personal assistance to some of my problems. I, like many others, have lost a capable counselor."

Carl Hopkins: "Mr. Lemos' untimely death has thrust disbelief into the hearts and minds of all who knew him and respected him."

Ed Mills: "In all his honest modesty Mr. Lemos never thought any person too insignificant, never considered any problem too small for his personal attention."

Renee Sears: "I never considered Mr. Lemos as merely the president of Hartnell College. He was a faithful companion to all students and faculty members."

Warren Grindstaff: "If the new student union is not named the John B. Lemos Student Union it will be a gross miscarriage of justice."

Lawrence Storey: "Mr. Lemos never ran out of friendly 'hellos!' I respected his position but thought of him most as a friendly faculty member."

Pat Bissett: "The death of Mr. Lemos has robbed this school of a fine educator and brilliant administrator."

Josephine Love: "Just imagine what Mr. John B. Lemos could have done if God had granted him another 48 years!"

Gay Hansen: "I didn't know Mr. Lemos too well but I never heard a word of criticism against him."

Ron Rosenberg: "Like many others here at Hartnell, Mr. Lemos was more of a personal friend to me, rather than an administrator. He was a friend among friends."

Jim Shade: "I've never seen or heard about a faculty member, counselor or administrator that gained the respect and popularity that was gained by John B. Lemos."

Ivana Stock: "In one meeting with Mr. Lemos I discovered that he was just about the most brilliant man I'd ever met and at the same time the most tolerant and tactful."

Sheila Goodhan: "I never saw Mr. Lemos 'snub' a student and his interest in their problems was unique."

Jim Wever: "Hartnell College and the progress it has made through the years stands as a monument to the labors of John B. Lemos."

Steve Jones: "Mr. Lemos' death is untimely and shocking. He was a champion to all collegians now attending and those who have passed through the doors."

Jim Belcher: "John B. Lemos was a good father, a Christian gentleman, a top administrator, and will be sadly missed by all who knew him, no matter how casually."

These are only but a very few of the many, many words of praise voiced by the students of Hartnell this week. We regret that space and time limitations do not permit us to bring more of them.

Young Farmers Group Plans Many Events Including Barbecue, Dance

The Salinas Chapter of Young Farmers met at Hartnell A. and M. on Monday night, December 13. Plans for their anticipated program of work for the coming year were discussed.

A snow trip in Yosemite was planned and a chapter barbecue is to be held next spring. One of the future projects of the Young Farmers is a dance to which the Collegians of Cal Poly have been invited to play.

Don Bauer and Marvin Roberts, Jr., will head the barbecue committee.

Community service is a part of Young Farmer work and two members, Steve Goetz and Don Bauer, were selected to head this important work.

Salinas will send two delegates to the State Young Farmer convention to be held in San Luis Obispo in February.

Prominent speakers in the agricultural field have been invited to address the group each month. Joe Muir, local livestock specialist with the farm extension office, has already discussed livestock judging with the Young Farmers.

California Young Farmers is an organization made up of boys 18 to 35 years of age who are interested in farming or related agricultural occupations. Any young man in the Salinas area is invited to attend meetings which are held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month. For further information call Hartnell A. and M., number 2-2936, or attend a regular meeting.

Those members present at last Monday's meeting were President Jim Burr, Steve Goetz, Jim Mc-

Pharlin, Chet Englund, Jr., Bob Silk, Don Bauer, and Bill Barker. Advisor to the group is Hartnell A. and M. agriculture instructor, John Schaub.

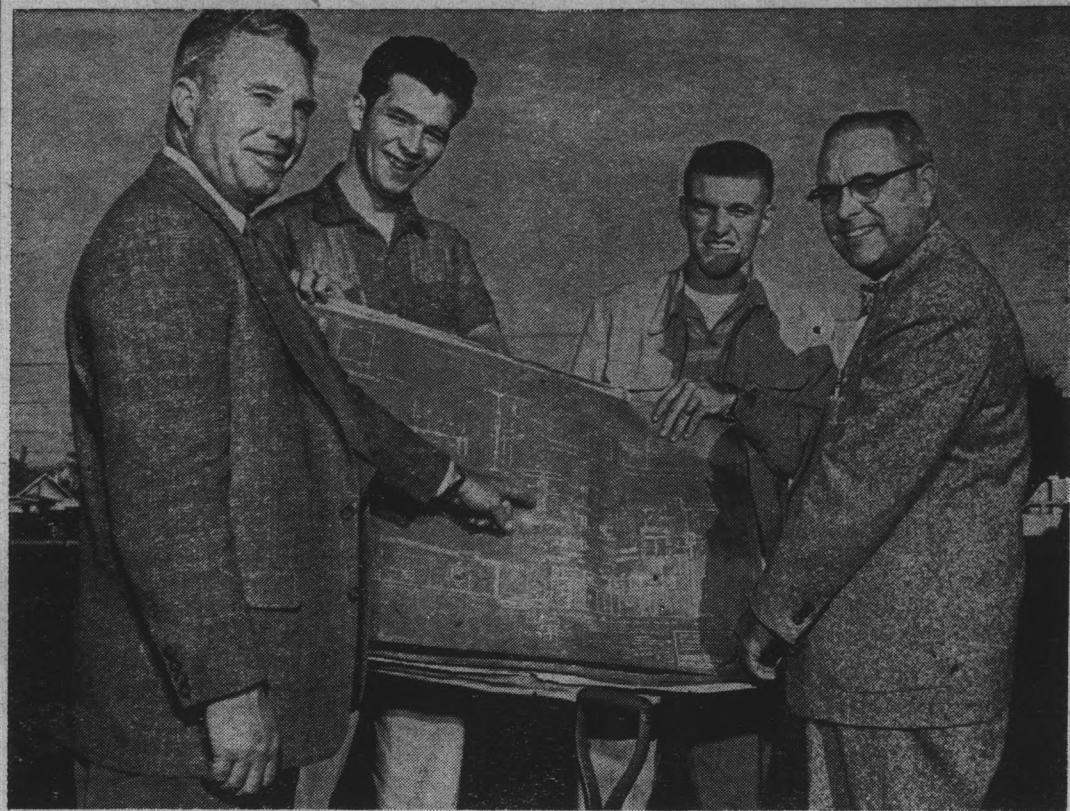

M. Mauro Wins Gregg Dictation Rapidity Contest

Once each month, during the school year, advanced shorthand students participate in Gregg dictations and transcription contests. If a student is successful in taking dictation at various levels of speed and transcribing the material at ninety-five percent or better accuracy, the Gregg Company awards such students certificates and pins. For dictation speeds below 100 words per minute only certificates are issued; for speeds above 100 words per minute pins as well as certificates are issued.

To date for this school year, Miss Marie Mauro of Salinas has earned a gold pin and certificate for having passed Gregg dictation at the highest speed earned by any student this semester, that of 120 words per minute dictation, for five minutes, with an accuracy of 99 per cent.

Next in shorthand speed were Louise Pomo and Sandra Gutierrez who earned pins for having successfully passed the 100-word per minute dictation tests, on five-minute takes of new material.

Miss Betty Briggs, Mrs. Patricia A. Davis, and Miss Aldena Sala earned certificates for having successfully passed the 80 word per minute dictation tests, while Mrs.

Another John B. Lemos Dream Comes True

John B. Lemos Realized That His Biggest Dream . . . Hartnell Four-Year College . . . Could Not Come True

(Editor's Note: About two weeks before he passed away, Hartnell President John B. Lemos was interviewed by Sentinel writer Sylvia Snider as to the possibilities of turning Hartnell into a four-year college. Here Mrs. Snider reports the facts as given to her by Mr. Lemos, whose greatest dream also was to see the elevation of Hartnell to a senior college level.)

By SYLVIA SNIDER

No doubt many have wondered why Salinas does not make Hartnell College into a four-year college. Salinas is a nice sized city now, and growing; however, junior colleges, high schools and other schools are all operated under the same code, financed by local taxation, and are governed by a local board which is elected by the people of the district.

Our state colleges are of two kinds. First, they are either branches of the University of California, which is governed by a board of regents who are appointed by the governor of the state of California and are financed by appropriations made by the state legislature or, second, they are the state colleges which are governed by the state board of education.

The legal setup of the different kinds of colleges makes it impossible to change a junior college into a four year college. The law does not permit the disbandment of a junior college once it has been established, or formed.

In the past, several state colleges have been operated on the same campus with junior colleges, or the other way around, but they have all been required to separate within the last two years.

The present trend of education in the state of California is to expand the junior colleges in number and size to keep up with the increase of enrollments and to establish four-year colleges in regions where the concentration of population may warrant.

At the present time there is a committee being established in the tri-county area of Monterey, Santa Cruz, and San Benito Counties to promote the establishment of a four year college somewhere in the area. The establishment of such a college would not interfere in any way with the three local colleges now formed, the ones at Monterey, Salinas, and Hollister.

Hal Boutte To Rejoin Squad

By LEN KLEMPNAUER

Hartnell's varsity basketball team will open its 1955 N.C.J.C.C. season tonight when it visits Concord to take on the East Contra Costa Vikings. Game time is slated for 8 o'clock.

E.C.C. is paced by Bill Graham and Ed Rano. Graham was an all-conference selection last year. He possesses a good set shot eye and is a good hustler. Rano was named to the small colleges all-tournament team held in Salinas in December. He relied mainly on a jump shot from close in but could hit on the long ones, according to tournament watchers.

The Vikings as a team are fairly small and use their speed as the main line of attack. They are a good fast-breaking outfit and continuously are running in an effort to wear out their taller opponents.

In the tournament, the Vikings captured the consolation bracket. They defeated M.P.C. and Porterville but lost to Reedley.

Hartnell will be out to try to nip the Vikings. E.C.C. won the N.C.J.C.C. championship last year while the Panthers placed second. Revenge is the main thought of Coach Adams' quinter as the Panthers prepared this week for the contest.

The popular mentor worked his charges hard following the two-week layoff due to the Christmas holidays. The main stress was to work his team in order to get it in shape for the speedy E.C.C. crew.

The return of Hal Boutte to the Hartnell hardwoods is an added measure of satisfaction to the Panthers. The 6-foot 4-inch center suffered an injury earlier in the season and has just been declared "fit" to play.

Boutte is the main backboard man for the locals. His return will give Hartnell the much needed height they have been lacking. Besides Boutte, Coach Adams will probably start Jack Rowley and Ed Dix at forwards and Howard Lum and Walt Harris at guards.

RATS IN FIRST PLACE

The Lounge Rats still hold first place in the intramural basketball league having won four games in four starts. Their last victory was over the Themis, 25-20. In second place is the Flyers who have won three games while dropping one. The only setback came at the hands of the Lounge Rats.

■ Jack Rowley, Hartnell's top basketball player, receives a trophy for being the outstanding Hartnell player of the 1954 Small Colleges Basketball Tournament from Homecoming Queen Anna Dietz. This was the second straight year that Rowley received the coveted award. He was also named to the all-tournament team for the second straight year.

Hartnell Loses In Finals To Allen Hancock College 82-50

By LEN KLEMPNAUER

Allan Hancock College of Santa Maria posted an 82-50 win over Hartnell J.C. in the final round of play to grab the Seventh Annual Small Colleges Basketball Tournament championship, December 21, 1954, at the Hartnell gymnasium.

The victorious Hancock team jumped to an early lead, never to be headed. They commanded an easy 35-18 edge over Hartnell at halftime. The winners were paced by forward Ted Boggs who hit for 18 points. The hosting Panthers' high man was Jack Rowley who netted 17.

Hartnell had gained the finals by defeating Taft and Coalinga in what proved to be two easy contests. Hancock had a harder time but skinned by Reedley and Porterville.

Consolation championship was taken by East Contra Costa who caught fire after holding a 13-point lead at halftime to take the measure of Monterey Peninsula, 77-45.

Third place went to Reedley while Coalinga was fourth. Reedley whipped Coalinga 83-62 in the semifinal round.

Two contests were, in the minds of the spectators, the best of the tournament. The first was in the initial round when Reedley edged E.C.C., 70-68. E.C.C. held a 32-25 halftime margin but faded in the final minutes of play.

Reedley and Hancock provided the other thrilling encounter. Battling for a spot in the finals, the two teams fought tooth and nail before Hancock put on a last minute spurge to win by 14 points. The final score gave Hancock a 68-54 edge.

Only one member of last year's all-tournament team received a nod this time. Hartnell's Jack Rowley playing forward received the award as the top player plus a spot on the all-tourney team.

Others who were selected as all-tournament players were Hancock's Dave Wood, center; and Dick Rife, guard, along with Coalinga's Dick Youree, forward, and E.C.C.'s Ed Rano, guard.

Outstanding Player

Short Circuit

By KEN DAUGHERTY

The recent signing of Dick Voris as head coach of Monterey Peninsula College may have a marked effect on the future football teams of Hartnell.

Voris, a former assistant coach with the Los Angeles Rams, will undoubtedly have the name to draw top high school talent to the Lobo campus.

Ironically, M.P.C. hasn't defeated Hartnell in a football contest since Voris began his junior college coaching career with the Panthers in 1952.

The race between Hartnell and M.P.C. for football talent has been going on for several years. Hartnell has enjoyed a distinct advantage due to the success of its 1952 Junior Rose Bowl performance. The Panthers made a name for themselves and boys from all over the district came to the Salinas campus to play football.

The tide may have changed. Who can blame a high school football player from wanting to serve under a man who was a professional football coach? And from a college that charges no tuition.

Next year will tell the story. Voris will have to rebuild his entire team from one first stringer. It will be no easy job, and if he fails to get top-flight talent, we predict that Monterey will have a mediocre team.

Hartnell Coach Ken Blue will field an experienced and well-balanced team. Blue did a tremendous job with the Panthers last season and Hartnell should maintain its superiority over M.P.C. for at least another season. But a warning to all future Panthers! Watch out for the Lobos in '56!

HARTNELL A FOOTBALL SCHOOL? Where is all of the big game attendance that Hartnell enjoyed during football? The Panthers' basketball season is noticeably set back by the small amount of fans.
